Madrasah buildings are one of the most important buildings over the all historical buildings. In the present study, Karaman Ermenek Tol Madrasah is investigated. The building has special properties since it was constructed with special construction techniques. The building is modelled with Finite Element Modelling and stress, displacement and shear values are calculated.