ORGANIC AQUACULTURE STANDARDS

As a result of the negative impact of agricultural activities on the environment and human health, awareness of consumers about nutrition has increased especially in recent years and term of organic production has brought up. Like other branches of agricultural production, aquaculture is affected by the organic production practices. In parallel with the organic trend in the world, scientific research and production work on organic aquaculture is increasing day by day. In this article is mentioned that development of organic aquaculture production which is a relatively new phenomenon in our country all over the world and general principles on organic aquaculture.

Keywords: Organic agriculture, organic aquaculture, salmon aquaculture